Think & Grow Rich

Napoleon Hill's classic novel was originally published in 1937 and I was originally introduced to it by none other than one of my favorite mentors - my dad. I recently listened to a condensed version and wanted to share the core message with all of you! By becoming a stronger, more decisive person, you'll change your mindset about success; that means you're encouraging success to come your way. No more falling by the wayside when things start to become a little tricky. Instead, you'll foster the single-minded route towards getting what you want and becoming someone that others will admire and look up to as a result. Isn't that what everyone wants at the end of the day?

Remember, changing your mindset doesn't happen overnight. This is a process you must dedicate time and effort to if you want it to work. You need to master each element entirely before moving onto the others. The whole process is a snowball effect, and as you master one section, it will lead strongly into the next. As you reach each goal, your confidence will grow quickly.

All too often we fall foul of our own negativity. It's easy to worry, panic even, and then start to overthink. This doesn't help your attempts at success and hinders them instead. Focus on becoming a stronger, more single-minded person. Trust yourself and work with a concrete plan. This will build your confidence and help you to achieve your lifelong aims.

Becoming a successful person isn't down to luck. It's down to hard work and perseverance. These are things that anyone can encourage into their lives, it simply takes awareness and the ability to understand when current tactics simply aren't working. Take control of your emotions, create a plan and start to move towards your goals in life!

Try these action steps:

1. Use positive affirmations daily to build your faith in the process
2. Identify the people you want by your side throughout your journey, ie your Mastermind Alliance
3. Consider attending a meetup of like-minded people. This will help you overcome your fear of interacting with new people and build up connections

"Every adversity, every failure, every heartbreak, carries with it the seed of an equal or greater benefit"

-Napoleon Hill

Forget New Year's Resolutions and Conduct a "Past Year Review" Instead

Written By: Tim Ferris, December 27, 2021

Over the past couple of years I have become a big fan of Tim Ferriss and have been following his blog and love his "Ferriss Top Five" weekly email blasts. Tim is an author of several books including the "The 4-Hour Work Week" His e-mails are full of great tidbits of information. To subscribe, CLICK HERE! Here is a post that he wrote that I wanted to share even though I am a big believer in goal planning and the vision boarding process. Here is his take on traditional New Year's Resolution setting:

"I'm often asked about how I approach New Year's resolutions. The truth is that I no longer approach them at all, even though I did for decades. Why the change? I have found "past year reviews" (PYR) more informed, valuable, and actionable than half-blindly looking forward with broad resolutions.

I did my first PYR after a mentor's young daughter died of cancer on December 31st, eight years ago, and I've done it every year since. Her passing was a somber reminder that our days here are too precious not to fill them with the people and activities that nourish us most.

The PYR takes just 30–60 minutes and looks like this:

- Grab a notepad and create two columns: POSITIVE and NEGATIVE.
- Go through your calendar from the last year, looking at every week.
- For each week, jot down on the pad any people or activities or commitments that triggered peak positive or negative emotions for that month. Put them in their respective columns.
- Once you've gone through the past year, look at your notepad list and ask, "What 20% of each column produced the most reliable or powerful peaks?"

Based on the answers, take your "positive" leaders and schedule more of them in the new year. Get them on the calendar now!

- Book things with friends and prepay for activities/events/commitments that you know work. It's not real until it's in the calendar. That's step one.
- Step two is to take your "negative" leaders, put "NOT-TO-DO LIST" at the top, and put them somewhere you can see them each morning for the first few weeks of 2022. These are the people and things you *know* make you miserable, so don't put them on your calendar out of obligation, guilt, FOMO, or other nonsense.

That's it!

Let me know if you give this a try!! I am going to do it so join me!

The Anniversary of Unexpected Violence

I am writing on January 6, 2022, the anniversary of the insurrection at the US Capitol Building. If you happened to have been watching TV a year ago today you were most likely surprised to be seeing violence erupt in Washington. The surprise and shock still lives in the awareness of many people that this violent display of discord happened is being highlighted in today's news and reviews.

As an average citizen I was, and am still, surprised. As an astrologer I am reminded that the "stars" (planets) will have their way, no matter what we think should or should not be. Three times last year Uranus, the planet of surprises, was exactly 90 degrees away from Saturn, the planet of structure. True to form to the dynamics of these planets, surprises disrupted structures. Their disturbing connections happened in January, June and December. A 90 degree configuration between these two planets created bumper car like disturbances. They boldly delivered expected disruptions. If you are familiar with the bumper car amusement ride, you are aware you don't enter a bumper car amusement park experience expecting to have a peaceful ride. Nonetheless when the jarring occurs, it is disruptive and somewhat surprising. (Life has a quirky way of being a constant contradiction in terms.)

More Expectations of the Unexpected!

Last year was a roller coaster of unexpected surprises on many fronts. The last exact 90 degree connection between these planets was on December 24, 2021. By the end of the year we were beginning to think the pandemic was abating. Then unexpectedly plenty of news about the rise of the Omicron variant began to emerge. Currently, I am hearing about 5 – 10 times more cases of Covid among friends and associates than I was made aware of in 2020 or 2021.

There will be no exact connections between these two planets in 2022. However, there is reason to be forewarned their disruptive influence still continues. Starting in August they will be in close enough contact for the last 5 months of the 2022 year to anticipate that there will be plenty of astrologically inspired reasons to expect the unexpected. Election season in the US is likely to be a VERY bumpy ride.

Sage Time Tested Wisdom: You Only Have Power Over How You Respond

Your most potent capacity for keeping and maintaining personal power in the midst of any situation, and particularly turmoil, rests with your ability to go with the flow. This can also be described as accepting life on life's terms. Fortunately, there are actions you can take and mindsets you can adopt that will support and strengthen your ability to do this.

Nanette Saylor, Life and Creativity Coach, with whom Jill and I are partnering to offer the Visions and Auras Workshop, in keeping with this concept has people add to their vision board a sticker with this same sentiment. The sticker says:

"This, or something better, now manifests for me in totally satisfying and harmonious ways, for the highest good of all concerned."

Another way of saying the above is: "I aim for the best and, however, I can and will accept life on life's terms."

The Ability to Demonstrate Composed Acceptance Gets Better with Practice

Among of the overriding benefits that we, (Jill, Nannette and I) as leaders of the Visions and Aura Workshop, want to deliver are tools to assist people in being skillful in committing to envisioning the best while being centered and resilient in living with what is.

The Vision and Auras Workshop and CHANGES

In the interest of keeping everyone safe we have decided to change our Visions and Auras workshop from being an in-person experience on 1/22/2022 to being a virtual workshop to launch. More information about how it will unfold and about the related on-going virtual follow-up during the month of February will be explained in next week's newsletter. Please stay tuned.

Wishing you love and light in the New Year.

PS Regarding Crypto Mojo.

The crypto prognosticators of all different persuasions, including a financial astrologer, were significantly overestimating the rise in value of cryptocurrencies. Of the individuals I follow the indication is that: 1. Crypto is here to stay. 2. It is a young asset and no one knows how to accurately predict its growth. 3. Its slower growth could be positive because institutional investors will not be as concerned about wild volatile swings. 4. Continue to HODL (Hold On for Dear Life).
